

Dear NAESP Members:

It is with extreme pleasure that I recommend Seth Daub to be elected as Vice-President of NAESP. He is currently the creative and action-oriented president of the Florida Association of School Administrators (FASA). He has served as an officer at all levels from the local Orange County (Orlando) association to the state of Florida elementary principal's board and now FASA. Seth's credentials, awards and experience speaks volumes about the energy he brings to all his roles in education.

On the FASA umbrella board he is a recognized leader. Each year, Seth recruits more members to FASA than any single administrator in Florida – he has also set this as a goal during his term as NAESP Vice President. Seth sets goals and works tirelessly to ensure goals are always met.

Seth is willing to lead board members in difficult but crucial conversations about the future of the Association and education. Our country and schools are in a critical time; addressing safety and racial issues are the very foundation of ensuring students are receiving a high-quality education. Seth's ability to approach these simultaneously is admirable.

Last year, FASA's Diversity Committee began addressing issues of race and gender equity. As president, Seth has worked with our Diversity Committee and 5,500 members statewide, providing professional development on the crucial conversations we all need.

The relationships he has built at all levels are an asset to moving the priorities of NAESP forward. The energy Seth brings will not only add to the stability of the Association but also the diversity of thought.

Seth walks the walk of being a cheerleader for education and the essential role administrators play at all levels. I know he will bring the same high-level energy and responsiveness to NAESP once elected.

Sincerely,

Michele White, CAE
Executive Director
