Getting a Degree at a Discount
Ernie Mannino
Associate Executive Director
NAESP Convention and National Principals Resource Center

As a principal, you know how hard it is to find leadership-specific courses that can not only advance your career, but help you successfully develop your teachers into strong educators. Once you do find a program that matches your needs, the cost, location, or the time frame often make it impossible for you to enroll.

At NAESP, we understand that you need high-quality professional development that is relevant, affordable, and easily accessible. Through our partnership with Nova Southeastern University (NSU), we now can provide you and your teachers the learning opportunities you’ve been searching for.

By taking advantage of NSU degree programs at a 20 percent discount, principals can enhance their careers with master’s and doctoral programs that are job-embedded, professionally enhancing, intellectually challenging, doable, and flexible. Choose the program that best meets your needs for personal and professional growth, complete it at your own pace, and enjoy the benefits.

Your teachers can also take advantage of the 20 percent discount for NSU programs that will help them meet NCLB standards for highly qualified teachers.

NSU has one of the largest graduate schools of education at an accredited university and is one of the first universities to offer a quality, nationally ranked distance education program. Its experience with online learning makes NSU a valuable resource for your professional development.

To find out more about NSU programs and how to apply for them, go to www.schoolofed.nova.edu/naesp.

NAESP’s professional development opportunities don’t stop here. Our NAESP Leadership Academy includes Webcasts, online modules, and on-site programs specifically designed for principals and their staffs. To learn more about these offerings, go to NAESP’s Leadership Academy Web site at www.naesp.org/nla.
